Duroc Flies To Thailand

Some little pigs go to market, but there's a registered Duroc from the Shirey farm, Concord, who's going all the way to Thailand (Siam), and the Kasetsart University there.

"Centerview Nell, XVI" is her name, and as a choice selection from G. A. Shirey's Va. State certified herd, she will go to a university in Bankok Thailand, to help in research and development programs there to improve swine herds.

G. A. Shirey and his brother, Herbert, have been in the hog raising business for well over fifty years. First they raised Poland China or Berkshire cross-bred hogs, then switched to the pure-bred Durocs.

Although brother Herbert has retired from the business, there are still plenty of Duroc hogs in the seven houses maintained by G. A. Two boars, ten brood sows and sixty gilts are given careful feedings and care. For the young litters there are infra-red lamps at the back of each farrowing house so that the new ones can stay warm and out of the way of a sow who might crush them unintentionally as she moves around.

Quality is maintained by careful breeding. Only the inferior animals are sold for food at the Shirey farm. The rest are reserved for sale as breeding stock.

The Shirey Brothers are well know by Duroc raisers in a multi-state area. It's a case of "we'll call you", says their sister, registered nurse Miss Virginia Shirey, who is the homemaker for the brothers. She keeps track of callers and buyers while the brothers are in the field. Her nursing skills helped out in a great way, several years ago, said brother Herbert, when a sow was unable to nurse her litter, and the brothers cut holes through the walls of a farrowing house, then poked

"Centerview Nell, XVI" is a titled young gilt. She takes a last snack of balanced feed before shipment by airplane to Thailand C. A. Shirey (center) is grower of registered Duroc hogs, and this choice animal from his farm was selected to be breeding stock to help upgrade swine herds in Thailand.

well filled baby bottles through the holes providing warm milk for a dozen or so young hogs who would otherwise have perished.

"Centerview Nell XVI", farrowed August 29, is a young traveler, but an important one. Says G. A. Shirey, if Virginia stock proves as good in Thailand as we know it is, here, this may mark the beginning of additional shipments of quality animals to the Far East. They laughingly called the gilt a "missionary" bringing hope of better meat and thus better nutrition to people overseas.

Jim said.

Slides of the excellent strip cropping system, sod waterways, pasture, wildlife feed patches, and pond showed the Harris farm to be a picture of conservation. The expansion of grain and silage facilities and number of cows in the herd is further proof that conservation pays.

FFA Officer training sessions were among activities conducted during the Hub Federation Leadership School. Here Thomas Franklin, David Wheeler, Phillip Lucado, James Torrence and advisor D. W. Torrence discuss the proper dress for FFA officers.

Lee Chapter Hosts Leadership School

The Robert E. Lee Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was host to the second annual Hub Federation Leadership Training School. The school was held at Appomattox High School on November 6.

State FFA President, David Shiflett, and State FFA Treasurer, Bill Dudley, were the featured speakers at the conference.

The Leadership Training School consisted of individual training sessions for chapter officers. During the banquet session table manners and etiquette were discussed. After dinner, demonstrations were given on such topics as parliamentary procedure, proper dress for FFA officers, points for the nominating committee to keep in mind and how to make an introduction.

Attending the meeting from the Robert E. Lee Chapter were President Tom Franklin, vice presidents, Gary Thomas and Leon Goin, Secretary Jimmy Bondurant, Treasurer Curtis Eagle, Reporter David Wheeler, Sentinel James Torrence, Chaplain Phillip Lucado, Historian Twyman Nash, John Bradford, Kenneth O'Brien, Emmit Knight, Gary Fleshman, Steve Tanner and Doug Webb.

The FFA Chapters attending the meeting were Appomattox Amherst, Brookville, Carver-Price, Rustburg High School, Rustburg Intermediate, and William Campbell.

Snowman Contest Planned By SCA

The Student Council of Appomattox High School met Thursday, November 6, President, Karen Smith, presided over the meeting. She congratulated all those who worked to make our homecoming a success and a report on the proceeds from the spirit chains was given. All were reminded of the District SCA meeting held at Brookville on Saturday, Nov. 8. The SCA has several projects in mind for the future. Among them are selling doughnuts at the basketball games, sponsoring the Mr. Snowman contest in December, and sponsoring the Christmas Dance on December 19. The SCA asks for your support in making these projects a success.

Cadettes Plan "Inside-Outing"

Cadette Girl Scouts of the Virginia Skyline Girl Scout Council, Inc., will be converging at the Salem-Roanoke Valley Civic Center, Salem, Virginia, on Saturday, November 15, for their Annual Council - Wide Cadette Event. Over a thousand Cadette Girl Scouts, Leaders, and guests are expected to attend from the 36 counties in Virginia which the Council encompasses.

Cadettes of Troop 311, Appomattox, have made the flag of Sweden to present to the Skyline Council.

The Cadette Event is generally held in the fall of the year but with a different theme and type of program each year.

This year's theme is "Inside-Outing", a program on the Out-of Doors held inside.

A very special part of the program will be the presentation of the World Association Flags, which were made by the Cadettes as a service project to their Council. Forty-three countries are full members of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, and it is these forty-three flags that will be presented to the Council by the Cadette Troops.

The program will begin at 10:00 a.m. and continue until 3:30 p.m.

2,000 Bales Hay Lost

Both Appomattox and Concord fire fighting units were called out Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 29, as Lyle Thomas (right), of Concord and his daughter, Mrs. Kelly Stratton, watched 2,000 bales of hay burn up. The day before the fire he completed a storage area to house tractors adjacent to the hay shed, and it, too, was lost in the hot blaze. Said Thomas, "It seems as if fire is out to get me." Ten years ago a helper dropped a cigarette near the Thomas home, resulting in a forest fire. About 25 years ago the Thomas home burned down and was replaced with a home within sight of Wednesday's fire. He said, "the hay I can replace. I'm glad nobody got hurt."

Radford Senior In Riding Club

Miss Lynda Hall of Radford College has recently become a member of the Hoofbeats, a Horse-back riding club at the college. She has been enrolled in formal riding classes for several quarters.

The riding club includes those girls interested in better riding and has various activities scheduled for the fall and winter quarters. The group recently saw the famous Lippizan Stallions in Salem and plans to travel to the University of Virginia to view a Polo Game and to visit the Arabian Horse Farm there. Guest speakers, including horse trainers and veterinarians, and others of interest regularly meet with the group.

Miss Hall, a senior at Radford is majoring in Elementary Education and has served on the Legislative Council of the school's student government. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Clayton Hall.
